A new supplement is now available online, A Legacy of Impact in Global Health: Tribute to President Jimmy Carter and Mrs. Rosalynn Carter.

Topics cover a wide range of current Carter Center health programming — Guinea worm disease, mental health, river blindness, trachoma, lymphatic filariasis, schistosomiasis, and the Hispaniola Initiative to eliminate malaria and lymphatic filariasis from Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

"We at The Carter Center are extraordinarily pleased to be featured in such a meaningful way by the American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene," said Kashef Ijaz, MD, MPH, vice president of health programs at The Carter Center. "President and Mrs. Carter were pioneers and exemplars in global health as well as many other important fields, and it is a privilege to follow in their footsteps. We thank the society for this recognition and collaboration."

"The AJTMH is proud to feature this supplement, highlighting the extensive and impactful accomplishments of the Carter Center in addressing some of the most important challenges in tropical medicine and global health," said Editor-in-Chief Philip Rosenthal, MD, FASTMH.
